

THINK
BEYOND
THE DESK

“I didn’t just learn in class —
I learned beyond the desk.”

MIIGWAN, Graduate

Miigwan’s path to Sault College began with her mom’s encouragement and a desire to learn about Indigenous culture. After completing her high school equivalency, she enrolled in the Social Service Worker – Indigenous Specialization program, offered in partnership with Oshki-Pimache-O-Win: The Wenjack Education Institute. Growing up in care, she reconnected with her culture through activities and support that helped her learn beyond the desk. Faculty were always ready to help, offering one-on-one guidance.

In 2025, her leadership and resilience earned her two awards: the Resiliency and Achievement in Indigenous Education Award and the Social Service Worker – Indigenous Specialization Achievement Award (Oshki-Pimache-O-Win Award). She has now begun her 2 + 2 pathway to her Bachelor of Social Work at Algoma University. Her ultimate goal is a master’s degree, then a PhD, all to better serve her community.

LAND ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Located in the Robinson Huron Treaty territory, we are grateful to Mother Earth for providing us the land, water, air, and food needed to sustain all life and we acknowledge Indigenous Peoples as the original stewards of this land who have lived in harmony and in respect with all Creation. As we are all relations, it is important to recognize this interconnected relationship with one another and our obligation to respect the land that has nourished, healed, protected, and embraced us. We honour Batchewana First Nation and Ketegaunseebee (Garden River First Nation) as the original caretakers of the land that Sault College is situated on and acknowledge the contributions of the historical Métis Nation of Sault Ste. Marie in the stewardship of this territory.

INDIGENOUS STUDENTS' UNION

We strive to provide an environment that fosters positive role models for our Indigenous students and offers opportunities to cultivate Indigenous-inspired leadership. Our organization is dedicated to creating a positive public image for Indigenous people and enhancing cultural sensitivity and awareness within the broader community.

As Indigenous student leaders, we advocate for the needs and interests of our students attending Sault College. We actively facilitate cultural engagement opportunities and work closely with our Elders-in-Residence, ensuring that traditional knowledge and practices are integrated into student life. We play a crucial role in promoting positive systemic change towards truth and reconciliation by ensuring that student voices are integral to all organizational activities.

The Indigenous Students' Union also fosters collaborative relationships with both internal College departments and external organizations to promote and engage in intercultural awareness sharing and cultural competency learning opportunities for the wider College community. Additionally, we support one another within the provincial system by collaborating with other Indigenous Students' Unions in the area, strengthening our collective impact and fostering a network of mutual support and advocacy.

GET INVOLVED!

Our Indigenous community at the College is here to support you through culture, community, and connection—and we also know how to have a little fun along the way. The Indigenous Students' Union (ISU) helps plan a full calendar of engaging events that celebrate tradition and bring people together. From canoe races, powwow visits, and drum socials to beaded poppy workshops, bannock on a stick, chocolate bar bingo, and even a holiday trolley train surprise, there's something for everyone. Whether you're looking to connect with culture, meet new friends, or just take a break from class, you're always welcome to join in.

Enji Maawnjiding means “Where We Gather.” It’s a welcoming space created for Indigenous students to connect, share knowledge, and support each other through cultural events and community gatherings.

Since its opening in 1993, Enji has been a welcoming, safe space to hang out, study, and gather for events. Enji features a kitchen and server, study and lounge space, and is connected to classrooms and faculty offices—all designed to create a warm, inclusive atmosphere. It reflects the hard work of the Indigenous Education Council and our commitment to providing alternative educational strategies for the needs of all Indigenous students.

WHERE WE GATHER

Wiigwaasgamig “Birch Bark House” Sacred Fire Arbour

Sault College completed the Wiigwaasgamig “Birch Bark House” Sacred Fire Arbour in 2017, situated outside the Indigenous Student Centre, Enji Maawnjiding. It serves as a site for spiritual ceremonies, teachings, and community events. The arbour was funded by Sault College and the Sault College Students’ Union and named by Elders-in-Residence, Barbara Nolan and Ted Recollet. “Wiigwaasgamig,” meaning Birch Bark House in Anishinaabemowin, reflects traditional teachings and the arbour’s design.

OUR ELDERS

Recognizing the importance of traditional knowledge, Sault College is pleased to provide Elders-in-Residence services. Our Elders are available to students and staff for one-on-one mentoring, talking circles, traditional teachings, ceremonies, and cultural curriculum support.

Barbara Nolan, an Anishinaabe Kwe (woman) from Garden River First Nation, is a fluent speaker and advocate for the preservation of Anishinaabemowin (the Ojibwe language). As a respected language holder, she shares traditional teachings and offers guidance on spiritual, emotional, and mental well-being. Barbara's commitment to cultural revitalization helps students reconnect with their language and heritage, providing a sense of belonging and pride in their identity.

Ted Recollet, a member of the Wikwemikong Unceded Territory, brings a wealth of knowledge in traditional ceremonies, land-based education, and community healing. His experience in guiding individuals through spiritual journeys and his passion for the well-being of community deeply influences his approach to supporting students. Ted's leadership and teachings inspire students to embrace Indigenous ways of knowing and living.

Through workshops, one-on-one mentorship, and cultural events, Barbara and Ted create a welcoming environment where Indigenous students feel supported on their educational journeys. Their presence also invites non-Indigenous students and staff to learn about and respect Indigenous traditions, fostering reconciliation and inclusivity on campus.

OUR CELEBRATIONS

We like to celebrate our Indigenous heritage and have an Indigenous Community Engagement Coordinator designated to plan these celebrations! Our Indigenous Community Engagement Coordinator collaborates with staff and the Indigenous Students' Union to offer a variety of social and cultural activities on campus. They also work with First Nations and Indigenous organizations to host community events throughout the year. These events include traditional teachings, Elder activities, craft nights, potlucks, socials, and guest speakers. Students are encouraged to bring family and friends to all events, creating a welcoming and enjoyable experience.

FUNDING YOUR EDUCATION

We're committed to supporting First Nations, Métis, and Inuit learners every step of the way. If you're starting or continuing your postsecondary journey, one of the most important first steps is understanding the financial supports available to you—including funding through your band or community.

Band Sponsorship – Post-Secondary Student Support Program (PSSSP)

If you're an eligible Status First Nations, you may be able to access financial support for part-time or full-time studies through your First Nation community. This funding—often through the Post-Secondary Student Support Program (PSSSP)—can help cover tuition, books, living costs, and sometimes travel. Policies, eligibility, and application processes vary by community, so reach out to your band's education office early. Our team can help connect you with your education officer.

Inuit students who formerly received funding through PSSSP should apply through the Inuit Post-Secondary Education Strategy.

Ontario Student Assistance Program (OSAP)

OSAP can help pay for college or university through grants and loans—and many Indigenous students qualify for grants that don't have to be repaid.

Apply online at osap.gov.on.ca and be sure to self-identify as Indigenous to unlock additional funding and supports. Sault College's Student Financial Assistance (SFA) team is here to guide you through the process.

Bursaries, Awards and Scholarships

Sault College offers an Indigenous Student Bursary to help with the costs of your education. You can apply once you're registered in a full-time program. This is a great option if you're not fully sponsored or if you need extra support for things like books or supplies. Reach out to the SFA early in the semester—they'll walk you through the application process. Find more bursaries, awards, and scholarships by visiting saultcollege.ca/awards

Indigenous Friendship Centre – Sault Ste. Marie

Supports the well-being of urban Indigenous individuals and families through culturally grounded programs in health, education, employment, and community connection. Their mission is rooted in the Seven Grandfather Teachings and a commitment to self-determination and cultural strength. They partner with Sault College to host events like the Indigenous Employment & Agency Showcase, connecting students with employers and services.

OUR SUPPORT

Meet Terri Glave

INDIGENOUS COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT COORDINATOR

Terri's spirit name is Onaagoshin Kwe which means Evening Sun Woman in Anishinaabe. She is a member of Michipicoten First Nation. You can find her organizing cultural activities, gatherings and ceremonies, and supporting the Indigenous Students' Union.

Meet Pamela Roach

INDIGENOUS COUNSELLOR

Pam is a member of Batchewana First Nation. She draws on her lived experience and more than 20 years in social services and mental health to encourage and support Indigenous students in achieving their academic goals. As a Registered Psychotherapist, she is committed to empowering Indigenous people through postsecondary education and is honoured to walk alongside students on their educational journey.

Meet Stephanie Boyer

INDIGENOUS COUNSELLOR

Stephanie is an Anishnabe-Kwe from Batchewana First Nation. As a Registered Social Worker, she is grateful to be a small part of peoples' journeys while they work to achieve their goals. With over 20 years of experience working with Indigenous populations, her passion to provide support and advocacy continues to grow.

Meet Justin

Support that shows up when you need it—a community that sees you, believes in you, and helps you keep going.

Justin, a proud member of Batchewana First Nation, found a sense of belonging through the Indigenous Student Services team. Whether it was dropping in to Enji Maawnjiding for a moment of calm, or leaning on staff for encouragement during tough times, the support was always there—and always real. “That space—and the people in it—helped me show up as my best self,” he says. “It’s a big reason I was able to push my work further than I thought possible.” That steady presence continues to inspire him beyond graduation.

OUR FACILITIES

Our campus fosters a welcoming, home-like environment for students. It features state-of-the-art facilities, amazing learning labs, a Waterfront Adventure Centre, a Motive Power Centre, and much more. The campus also includes a fully equipped Fitness Centre and a Sacred Fire Arbour used for cultural events. The College is committed to sustainability and honouring Indigenous land stewardship by acknowledging its location within the Robinson Huron Treaty territory.
